

The new Product Finder from Dold

Find the right product for your own application!

The new Product Finder on the redesigned Dold website provides direct and quick access to the relay modules range with over 10,000 articles. The user-friendly filter functions and the product search help to find the right product.

The product range can be narrowed down using a full-text search: Simply enter the article number, product type or search term. The search results are displayed dynamically and can be compared on the basis of the technical data or placed on the watch list for a later visit to the Dold website. In addition, it is possible to further refine the product selection using various filters such as approval, device dimensions, contact configuration or nominal voltage.

Once the right product has been found, it can be placed directly in the enquiry basket and a non-binding enquiry can be made. The Product Finder is available on every device and offers intuitive operation - 24/7.
